NATURALIZATION OF ALIENS.—As Professor Valery has pointed out,<sup>1</sup> one effect of the war is quite certain to be a heightened interest in the question of each individual's nationality. Incidentally, it is worthy of note that the existence of war and the passage of certain legislation relating to it have raised old questions concerning naturalization in a rather novel way.

Naturalization of an alien in the United States involves two legal acts. First, the express and absolute renunciation by the applicant of his old
